

Authentic Leadership

Supervisors must be leaders. Leading is the management function of influencing people to act or not act in a certain way. This course describes a variety of leadership styles and discusses how to give direction. It also covers how supervisors can authentically relate with the various people in an organization.

Length: 8 Hours

Learning Objectives:

- Describe authentic leadership
- Distinguish between formal and informal leadership
- Describe the connection between your personal values and your organization’s values
- Identify a leader who is a role model for you
- Describe your personal communication style
- Reflect on seven characteristics that you desire in a leader
- Outline a plan to improve your leadership skills

Course modules include:

Characteristics of Leaders	Participants will identify personal traits and characteristics of leaders they admire
Leadership Theories	This component covers the various leadership theories including: Great Man, Trait, Emergent/Situational, and Bass’s Transactional/Transformational Leadership.
Leadership Styles	Participants learn about leadership styles including: Autocratic, Participatory, Laissez-Faire, Transactional, and Transformational. They explore the best fit for themselves and their organization